July First Midnet Day

As announced in these columns, the Board of Trade has decided to dispense, this year, with a Sports Day on July 1st.

This date has always been utilized by the district for some celebration or other, so, this year the Midnet Ball Association, will stage a four-team tournament, with entries possibly from East Crossfield, Dog Pound, Calgary and the locals.

One game of girls' softball will also be played, winding up the day with a big dance at night, in the U.F.A. Hall.

Keep the date open, and give your support.

Until further notice Oliver Cafe Dine and Dance Evenings are cancelled.

Anglican Summer School At Banff

The summer school will be held at Banff, July 5 to 10.

This is an excellent opportunity for young people, as well as old, to have a physical, mental and spiritual holiday. The lectures this year will be as follows: Bible studies by Principal Trumppour, of the Theological College, Vancouver; Mission Studies by Rev. Dixon, of the Missionary in India; Church Music by Thos. Jenkins, Organist at St. Stephens, Calgary; Illustrated Lecture on "The Beauties of the Rockies", by Dan McGowan, of Banff.

All afternoons are free. Archdeacon Swanson is the dean of the school.

For further particulars apply the Rector, A. D. Currie.

Village Fathers Met Monday

Early-Closing By-Law
Passed

The local council met Monday evening, in the Town Hall, for the usual monthly meeting.

It was decided to give a grant to the School Fair Association, of $5.00.

Owing to numerous complaints received about stray dogs in the Village, the following was passed: that stray dogs, male or female, will be impounded, and if not claimed within four days, will be destroyed.

In the event of them being claimed the owner shall pay a fee of $1.00.

Communications from the Board of Trade, relative to the C.P.R. Grounds and the south entrance road, were read.

In connection with the petition from the Retail Merchants, tabled at the last meeting, it was re-read and passed, to be re-acted as a By-Law, that all Retail Stores will close every evening, at 6:30 p.m., and remain closed until the next day, with the exception of Saturdays and Legal holidays. This By-Law goes into effect, Monday, June 14, and all stores should make a note of this and be guided accordingly.

Former Resident Shower Recipient

Honouring Miss Alice Bliss, of Calgary (formerly Crossfield) whose marriage takes place this month, Miss Margaret Murdoch was hostess for a miscellaneous shower at her home, Saturday evening, June 5.

After the guests had puzzled for some time over the answers to a contest, little Helen Hurt and Louis Bliss struggled valiantly into the room with a beautifully decorated clothes basket, bedecked and laden with gifts, presenting same to the guest of honour.

After the presentation, a dainty lunch was served.

The invited guests included: Mrs. L. V. Bliss, Misses K. Mair, Betty Bliss, Alice Bliss, Jean Collicutt, Ida Calhoun, Stell Gordon, and Louis Bliss of Calgary, Mrs. C. A. Deeks, Airdrie, Mesdames F. Collicutt, T. Borbridge, L. Garwood, J. Belshaw, W. Fogue, R. Havens, H. Walsh, F. Landymore, G. Landymore, T. Mair, B. Lilley, W. Morrison, W. G. Murdoch, W. Hurt, T. Chalmers, F. T. Baker, A. ### Doings In The Realms of Sport

SOFTBALL

A friendly game was played at the local park, Thursday evening, when Carstairs girls provided the opposition to the Senoritas.

The Carstairs girls proved the victors and were seldom stretched, and won out by a score of 25 to 11.

Our local girls seemed to be over anxious, and this caused a few errors that might have been averted, and given a more balanced result; however, this is all in the game, and the Senoritas will give better account of themselves as the season progresses. This was the first game of the season, and too much could not be expected, but the game will serve as a guide for future performances.

Fraternal Visit Drumheller Board

"Honour the Stranger Within thy Gates"

On Wednesday, June 16, the local Board of Trade will be hosts to members of the Drumheller Board, and it is hoped, that a good turn-out of members from Crossfield will be on hand to welcome and entertain the visitors.

To assist the committees in charge, it would be of great assistance if members would notify President Tredaway or Secretary Edlund, whether they will be present on that date. Catering has to be arranged for, and also cars to take the visitors on a tour of the District. The tour will take in a visit to the Collicutt and Dougan Ranches, and also the H. P. Wright farm. It is hoped and expected, that many Crossfield members will make this trip, helping to make the visit a real friendly get-together.

In the evening, there will be a banquet and the programme will be put on by the visiting Board. So, come out in full strength, members, and hear inspiring messages brought to you by other people interested in Board of Trade work. An invitation is also extended to any other gentlemen interested in Board of Trade work, to avail themselves of this splendid, enterprising visit and be with us.

It is anticipated that some thirty members will make the trip from Drumheller, and that the district tour will commence from the Oliver Hotel.

Those who made the visit to Drumheller last year will tell you of the splendid hospitality they received, and it behooves every member of the local Board to be present, June 16.

Hail Insurance

The M.D. of Rosebud is in receipt of the following communications from the Hail Insurance Board at Calgary.

"This year we have reluctantly to advise you that we have been unable to obtain a line of credit for the current year. This will mean, of course, that insurance cannot be written, and we would ask you to kindly make this as generally known as possible in your Municipal District at once."

It is altogether likely that the Board will be kept in existence. The Bank is of the opinion that the organization should be kept alive so that when our financial position improves we can continue operations."

Anglican Church Telephone Bridge

The Anglican Church held a very successful Telephone Bridge Contest, and many availed themselves of the chance to help a good cause, while at the same time, derive pleasure from their favourite card game, "Bridge".

In the Ladies class, the first prize went to Mrs. E. Devins, Mrs. R. T. Amery taking second place. For the Gentlemen, Bert Lilley took first honours and A. E. Edlund was runner up. In the class that shines at the foot, it not at the top, and gets a prize, Mrs. Bishop represented the gender sex, while Dr. Whillans stood pat for the mere males.

All those taking part voted it a good time, and very much worth while.

Support the Senoritas.

The Grain Inquiry

The "Turgeon" Royal Grain Inquiry Commission has recently completed its western sittings and has adjourned until the autumn when the inquiry into grain marketing systems and methods shifts to the east and may be extended to embrace Great Britain and possibly other importing countries.

This may be taken as an assumption that the Commission has now heard all the representations it is likely to receive from farmers, organized and otherwise, on a subject that vitally affects their future welfare and it is to be hoped that the suggestion that the Commission— which means Mr. Justice W. F. A. Turgeon, since he is the sole member—make an interim report to the Federal government in time to enable recommendations to be implemented into legislation for the next year's crop, will be carried out.

While it is impossible to predict at this date what such recommendations will take, or in what direction they will trend, it is also to be hoped that if recommendations, which appear to be reasonable and have behind them every evidence of a desire to improve the economic condition of the western farmers, are made, that the Government and Parliament will have no time in giving the proposals an earnest trial in the practical field, whether or not they appear to conform to the avowed doctrines of any political party.

In other words, the welfare of agriculture in the west is too serious a matter to be used as a political football. The west has had a particularly hard time of it the past six or seven years and anything that can be done to minimize the recurrence or ameliorate the distressing vicissitudes which have afflicted the farming community should at least be given a trial and adherents of all political creeds should tackle the question with a single eye to the improvement of the farmers' lot.

The matter of the extent to which any legislation or any system of marketing can achieve this worthy object is another question, for it must be remembered that the main product of the western Canadian farm is subjected to the law of supply and demand covering the range of practically the entire world, to say nothing of additional impediments which are imposed by sources over which they, nor the legislators of this country have not the remotest control.

While this is true there appears to be a general consensus of opinion among the farmers that changes in methods could be adopted and measures taken which would ensure a return to the producer of a larger percentage of the ultimate sale price of his principal commodity.

If this is the case and the Commission is able to determine it, then, something should be done in this direction. It might well be pointed out here that an average additional return to the farmer of only two or three cents a bushel would be an important factor in the condition of his pocket book and might sometimes spell the difference between profit and loss.

One finds, delving back into history—and not very remote history at that—that commissions have previously travelled the country conducting similar inquiries into grain trading operations and have made more or less voluminous recommendations with comparatively little of their proposals being translated into the statutes or regulations. In short, any of the recommendations have been pigeon-holed and, in course of time, forgotten. It is earnestly to be hoped that, in that respect at least, history is not repeated this time.

During the western phase of the present inquiry the Commission has heard representations from a great many witnesses, including a considerable number of practical farmers, has made a record of this evidence to the extent of millions of words and no doubt this is costing the country a considerable amount of money, though, it is only fair to say that the operations of the present day commission are on a less lavish scale than some of the former commissions.

Whatever the cost of the inquiry may ultimately be, however, farmers and western taxpayers generally will not begrudge the expense if the inquiry is productive of some tangible practical results and if no time is lost in making recommendations that fall within this category applicable to the business on which not only they depend for a living but which forms the bulwark of business in western Canada and is an important arch in the economic structure of the entire Dominion.

Change In Coinage

Old Coins Of 1797 Weighed More Than Those In Use To-day

Changes that coins undergo in weight was emphasized by P. E. Johns, president of the Manitoba Motor League, when he unearthed a British penny of the reign of George III, and compared it with the newly minted penny of George VI. The design of the coins did not differ radically, but there was a big difference in weight. The old coin, minted in 1797 weighed two and one half ounces. The new penny is less than an eighth of an ounce.

Glycerine is better than oil for lubricating egg beaters, food cutters and juicers. It is tasteless and harmless.

Fight Drouth Conditions

Rehabilitation Of Prairie Farm Lands To Be Continuous Work

Rehabilitation of prairie farm lands was not a matter of five, 10 or even 20 years. It was more likely to be a continuous one, eventually becoming a department of government. John Vallance, federal rehabilitation officer, told the Western Stock Growers' Association convention at Calgary.

One-tenth of Canada's population, one-fifth of Canada's arable land and one-quarter of Canada's cultivated area came under the scope of the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act, he said.

Program of rehabilitation was meeting with success, added Mr. Vallance, and some abandoned lands were now restored to the point where farmers were returning to them. Reclamation and water development were being well developed. In some places, he said, it would be possible this year to impound 35,000 acre-feet of water which would formerly have flowed out of the country.

Takes Up Unusual Hobby

Woman Has One Of Most Extensive Collections Of Snakes

One woman who is not afraid of snakes is Mrs. Eugenia Shorrocks of Dorchester, Mass. An article by Ford Sawyer in the Boston Transcript describes her hobby, collecting snakes. She has one of the most extensive private collections of reptiles in the world.

In her home colonial-style house, which contains more than 50 specimens, may be found snakes ranging from 12-foot pythons and boa constrictors to the small garter or water variety, as well as various types of lizards, a giant turtle, toads, tarantulas and monkeys. The Dorchester woman's possessions are the realization of a girlhood love for pets, although it was mere chance which turned her efforts to the collecting of snakes.

Mrs. Shorrocks points out at the reptile island of Ross Allen at Silver Springs, Florida, rattlesnakes, by the thousands, are "milked" to obtain venom.

"It looks like orange juice, as it runs into a glass," she explains. "I have tasted some of it, and it has a sickly-sweet taste. Snake venom, you know, is not poisonous unless it gets into the blood stream. One who hasn't any cuts or breaks in the mouth could swallow it without any harmful effects."

"Serum, made from this venom, by immunizing horses, is used in the treatment of poisonous snake bites," the Dorchester woman says. She explodes a popular idea in this connection, when she declares that whiskey is harmful in such cases, as it stimulates the blood, running a person about, after being bitten, she also considers a poor remedy as, she says, a person should be kept quiet, the poison withdrawn by suction and serum injected.

Buried Treasure

Strange Story From Italy Regarding Submerged Wealth

From Cosenza, in Southern Italy, comes news of a search for the buried place of Alaric, the great Visigothic King, who died in 410 A.D.

When the king died, his people determined that his grave should be hidden and inviolable. Having carried his body to the banks of the little river Busento, they forced their prisoners to dig a new channel for the stream, and in its vacant bed they buried their king with a vast treasure of gold, silver, precious garments and weapons.

Then the river was turned back to its former channel and the captives who had done the work were killed so that no Roman should ever know the spot.

Now, after more than 1,500 years, it appears that a French scholar, Mlle. Amelie Crivolin, has been following the course of the river since last September, and with the aid of her scientific instruments has found at a certain place indications of a vast quantity of precious metal even metres below the earth surface.

At a spot not far distant from the river, workmen engaged in constructing a lime furnace came upon traces of ancient brickwork. The ground that had evidently once been traversed by water.

If the indications are correctly reported, it is possible that the Visigothic secret will be discovered in the near future.—London Observer.

Telling The World

Hitler Gives Reason For His Popularity With The People

Fuehrer Adolf Hitler was quoted by the Paris Journal as saying in an interview with Abel Bonnard, member of the French Academy:

"It is thought abroad that Germany lives under a dictatorship. But a regime like ours cannot be maintained by constraint. People are for me because they know I really busy myself regarding their needs and problems and because their souls interest me. That is why I have my greatest partisans in the people and am loved more than German monarchs were."

Big Difference In Size

The sun and the moon appear about the same size to observers on earth, but the sun actually has a diameter 400 times that of the moon. Since the moon is only about 239,000 miles away, and the sun is about 92,900,000, the enormous difference in size is not readily apparent.

If the hydrogen in a teaspoonful of water is converted into helium, about 100,000 kilowatt hours of energy, or 10,000,000 of electrical current, is set free.

Ringed in Hungary, a swallow which had flown 5,000 miles from the mid-European country, has been found in the interior of Bastuland, South Africa.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to go

The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your system every day. If it is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels, and then you get constipated. Harmful acids are formed, and you feel sour, sick and the world looks pink. A more powerful movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those glands, called the Little Liver Pills to get those bile glands flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of nature but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. See.

World's Second Richest Man

Rockefeller's Wealth Only Exceeded By That Of Nizam Of Hyderabad

John D. Rockefeller, Sr., died leaving a "comparatively small estate," a family spokesman said.

Great slices of the vast personal fortune, which once made Rockefeller the "richest man in the world," have been turned over to widely distributed benefactions; a "large amount" has been passed on to John D. Rockefeller Jr.

The mighty empire which the former Cleveland warehouse clerk carved out of oil and industry at one time was estimated roughly at five and a half billions; and the elder Rockefeller's personal fortune reached one billion dollars.

With the possible exception of the Nizam of Hyderabad, whose vast wealth is believed to exceed that figure, no man ever held a larger personal fortune than Rockefeller; and unquestionably no other man ever made as much.

The combined fortune of the family of Henry Ford may have totalled $1,000,000,000, but the Mellon fortune, estimated at $200,000,000; the Astor fortune, at $100,000,000; the Zaharoff, and the fabulous Gekwar of Baroda, all made their holders rank distinctly as "second-light" multi-millionaires.

During the last years of Rockefeller's active life, before he retired in 1911, his annual income was estimated at $50,000,000—a long jump from his original investment of $75,000 in Pennsylvania oil fields.

Starting New Industry

Hutterites In Manitoba Make Money Growing Popping Corn

One of Manitoba's new industries this year is the growing of popping corn. Twelve carloads of popping corn have been imported into Canada in the last year, each car with 30,000 pounds.

"We've tried to get the farmers in western Canada to grow it," said J. K. May of the industries committee. "One carload was bought by a Winnipeg farmer for $2,700. Two more carloads were sold in Washington, which is like taking gold to Newcasttle."

Manitoba comes into the popping corn picture this year. Hutterite farmers, near Assiniboine, are growing the corn, getting $9 a sack for it.

Gave Novel Address

President Lawrence J. Burpee, of the Royal Society of Canada, delivered a novel presidential address in Toronto, Tuesday night, when he was working on the principle of the animated cartoon, and letting quoted words from narratives of explorers tell the story of Canada's discovery and early exploration.

The swank game of pony polo originated in Central Asia 1,900 years ago, when uncouth tribesmen found it a lot of fun to whack a stick around with a stick while astride a horse.

Prizes Are Increased

Announcement Made By Directors Of International Live Stock Show

The Board of Directors of the 1937 International Live Stock Exposition announced that it has increased prizes in a number of breed competitions at the forthcoming exhibition which will be held at the Chicago Stock Yards from November 27 to December 4, 1937.

In the cattle divisions, the prizes in the Aberdeen-Angus classes will be increased by $225 and there will also be increases in the Shorthorn and Hereford classifications. No change is to be made from 1936 in the premiums for Milking Shorthorns, Polled Shorthorns, and Red Polled classes but there will be a change in the contests and an increase in the premiums for the carlot feeder cattle competitions. Aberdeen-Angus, Shorthorn, and Hereford will have separate contests this year, just as there have been in the past in the carlot fat-cattle show. A grand champion carload of feeders will be selected from the three breed champions.

In the 1937 sheep competitions the premiums will run about the same as in 1936, with a slight increase in the Hampshire awards.

In the draft horse show, all foal flights will be eliminated. For all breeds of horses, the premiums will remain much the same as in 1936, with an increase of $150 in the Percheron premiums, and the omission of the five stallion contests in the Shire classification. The prize money which would have gone to this contest will be distributed this year over other contests in the Shire classification.

Highest Mountain Peak

Explorer Believes Tibet Has Loftier One Than Everest

Mr. Everest in the Himalaya range is not "the highest mountain in the world" and approximately $200,000 will be spent beginning this summer in an attempt to prove that contention.

Robert C. C. Winthrop, noted explorer and big game hunter, who is organizing the expedition, says it is his conviction that a peak in the Amme Machin range, northeast of Tibet, rises 31,000 feet above sea level compared with Everest's 29,002 feet. Winthrop plans to make aeroplane flights over the mountain, and will have a land party triangulating the peak from its lower levels.

The Amme Machin range lies within the bend of the headwaters of the Yellow River, from which no white man has ever returned alive, Winthrop said.

The expedition will land in China and follow caravan trails to Lanchow, in Kansu province, where a landing field will be established. Winthrop gave his authorities for his belief in the "higher mountain," Dr. J. F. Rook, of the National Geographic Society, and Gen. George Posters, of England.

Winthrop was born in India and has had an adventurous life as a soldier, correspondent and aviator.

Should Have Been Farmer

Lord Tweedsmuir Is Greatly Interested In Country Things

Lord Tweedsmuir in an address at Guelph said: This visit is the realization of a long-cherished hope." My wife and I are fundamentally country folk and more interested, in country things, than my mother's side. I come from a long line of border shepherds and farmers, and although I have had many professions, I am not at all certain that Providence did not mean me for a farmer."

Lord Tweedsmuir declared that as he went across Canada he had studied Canada's agricultural problems and he expressed an opinion that the O.A.C. is the "leading agricultural college in the Empire."

"The future of our commonwealth lies in the wider use of applied science. We must forestall the mischief not only be curative but prophylactic," the governor-general said.

Getting It Right

A woman travelling by train was talking with the man in the next seat. In describing her holiday she said that she had visited San Jose. "You pronounce that wrong," said the man. "It is San Josey." In California you should pronounce all J's as H's. When you were there?" The woman thought a minute, then answered, "In Hune and Italy."

British Guiana is the only country in the world where all the great racial divisions of mankind are largely represented in the population—white, red, brown, yellow and black men; Europeans, Indians, Hindus, Mongolians and Negroes.

Yet in the long run, the worst enemies of any man are those who cheer him when he is wrong.

HER KNEES SWELLED WITH RHEUMATISM

To Go Upstairs Was Agony

There is nothing in which rheumatism is a greater handicap than in doing ordinary household duties—kneeling, stooping, running up and down stairs. How to overcome that handicap, and relieve rheumatic aches and pains, is the subject of the following letter—

"I have been taking Kruschen Salts for three months. When I started, I had rheumatism in both knees. They were very swollen. I could not rise from a chair without assistance. I could not kneel, and to go upstairs was agony. Now I can run upstairs and kneel as much as I like. Since I have taken Kruschen, I can work like a horse." (Mrs. J. H.S.)

Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts are effective solvents of uric acid. Other ingredients of these Salts have a stimulating effect upon the internal organs, and assist them to excrete the dissolved uric acid from the system.

Fatal Accidents On Highway

Caused Mostly By Very Young Or Very Old Driver

When a very young or very old driver is involved in an accident, it is more likely to bring death to someone than in the case of a driver "in the prime of life." Group from thousands of automobile accidents in Ontario in the past six years shows. But youth has a worse record than old age.

For example, the six-year figures show that drivers between the ages of 18 and 24 were involved in 23.5 of all accidents, but when it comes to fatal accidents, they played a part in 25.6 of them. On the other hand, the "prime of life" group from 25 to 40, by far the largest numerically, while taking a hand in 45.3 accidents of all kinds, reduced their fatal accident toll to 42.7.

Even in the next group, from 41 to 54 years, the death-dealing smashers were fewer in proportion to all accidents, the figures being 21.6 per cent. of all accidents to 21.6 fatal. But after that the balance is adverse. The 55 to 64-year-olds were in 17.2 per cent. of all accidents, but in 5.9 per cent. of fatalities. The aged motorists have an even worse record. A small group, they took part in only 1.9 of all accidents, but were found to be "in the death" in 2.6 per cent. of cases.

New Alberta Cattle Policy

Would Assure Only Best Of Stock For Export

Plans for a new cattle policy for Alberta, to assure only the best of stock is available for export and domestic consumption, were announced by Hon. D. B. Mullen, minister of agriculture, to members of the Western Stock Growers' Association in convention at Calgary.

Development of the plan, which may be in operation by next fall, he said, might make it necessary for him, as minister of agriculture, to ask packers to eliminate low grade cattle from the meat industry altogether.

As outlined by Mr. Mullen, the new policy would provide for processing lower grade cattle at abattoirs in Calgary and Edmonton specifically for fox food and higher grade would be shipped to northern Alberta for feeding and finishing before being placed on the export market.

WILLING TO Give Two

The millionaire, whose daughter the young man had just saved, was insistent that he accept a cash reward. Finally, to save an embarrassing situation, our hero said casually: "Well, if you insist, just give me a week later he received a telegram from the father: "Have bought for you the Western Golfer's Club, and am now negotiating for the Sunnyside Links."

The court at Higham Ferrers, Northamptonshire, England, had not had a case of drunkenness for 10 years.

When a man is asked to give two, he should give two.

When a man is asked to give two, he should give two.

When a man is asked to give two, he should give two.

When a man is asked to give two, he should give two.

When a man is asked to give two, he should give two.

HEPBURN BREAKS WITH POLICIES OF PRIME MINISTER

Toronto.—Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario came to an open break with Prime Minister Mackenzie King, speaking to the Canadian Life Insurance Officers' Association he declared:

"I'm a reformer, but I'm not a Mackenzie King Liberal any more and I'll hope the whole world that."

Premier Hepburn renewed his attack on the John L. Lewis Committee for Industrial Organization and declared there would be no lawlessness in Ontario begotten by the C.I.O. or any like organization as long as he was premier.

"I can't speak for Canada because we have a vacillating government at Ottawa," Mr. Hepburn added.

A few minutes before Mr. Hepburn came to his renunciation of the federal premier, the man for whom two years ago he stepped down as premier, Atlantic to Pacific and northward and southward, he hailed Premier Maurice Duplessis, head of Quebec's Union Nationale government, as "a great national character."

"I look forward to the day he will play an ever more important part in the affairs of this Dominion," Mr. Hepburn said.

Ontario contributes 47 per cent of federal revenues, declared Mr. Hepburn, and Quebec contributes another substantial portion, the two together contributing much the greatest share of the whole. Together they should have more say in national policy.

Some receiving relief should be classed as "objects of public charity," declared Premier Hepburn, deploring what he declared to be a trend of people to lean on the government. Industry and thrift were penalized in that those who practiced them had to provide for those that did not.

Mr. Hepburn said he doubted present prosperity in Canada is fundamentally sound. Feverish buying by Europe preparing for war has promoted it.

So long as United States maintained the present gold price, business revival could not be seriously prejudiced, declared the premier.

He likened the United States government gold buying policy to the position of a man with a gun by the tail. He would like to let go but can't. Neither dare the United States stop buying gold.

Mr. Hepburn discussed the C.I.O. He declared lawlessness seemed rampant in the United States because of "one man."

"But what has happened there will never happen in British dominions," he declared. He said an organizer for the C.I.O. at Windsor had openly advocated all-down strikes.

"There will be no lawlessness in Ontario begotten by the C.I.O. or anybody else so long as I'm premier," he declared. "I can't speak for Canada because we have a vacillating government at Ottawa."

Oil On E.P. Ranch

Duke Of Windsor May Control Rich Oil Lands

Calgary.—The Duke of Windsor may find himself the controller of rich oil lands in Alberta before another year.

Owner of the 3,000-acre E.P. Ranch in the rolling foothills, near High River, 40 miles south of Calgary, the Duke of Windsor's ranch land acreage is believed by oil men to hold the key to a crude oil reservoir, long sought by operators in the Turner Valley field.

Announcement was made by officials of several companies which they planned to drill for oil on the north, south, east and west boundaries of the ranch.

Drilling is already underway at one well, four miles northwest of the ranch property, and the rotary drill is down to a depth of 2,000 feet.

No one may seek oil on the royal ranch. The duke holds a 99-year lease on the oil and gas rights and only with his permission could drilling be started.

A strike at the boundary wells, oil men said, might mean permission would be sought from his royal highness to drill on the ranch property.

One of the companies which will drill on the ranch boundary is Chinese. It was organized by the Chinese communities of Calgary and Vancouver.

Explosion Kills Patient

Baltimore.—Dr. Winford Smith, director of the Johns Hopkins University hospital, said an explosion of gas in a patient's lungs had killed the patient during an operation.

Survey Parties

300 Men To Be Placed In Field This Summer To Collect Data On Minerals

Ottawa.—Nearly 300 men organized in 52 survey and exploration parties will be placed in the field this summer by the mines and geology branch of the department of mines and resources to collect new data on the mineral resources and topographical features of Canada.

The department announced 41 of the parties would be engaged in geological investigations and 11 in topographical mapping.

The field force will operate in every mineral producing province and in the Yukon and the Northwest Territories.

Nine geological parties will be sent to British Columbia. The prairie provinces will have 11 at work. The Northwest Territories two and the Yukon one.

Three of the topographical parties will work in British Columbia, three in Alberta, two in the Northwest Territories and one in the Yukon. The planned survey in Saskatchewan includes:

Geological examinations in a 10,000 square mile area lying mainly south of Crete lake and east and north of Frobisher and Churchill lakes;

Geological mapping of an unknown 5,000 square mile area along the Manitoba boundary and to the south and west of Reindeer lake;

Geological mapping south of Hudson Bay Junction to determine petroleum possibilities.

Negro Is Honored

Scientific Genius Of Man Who Was Born In Slavery

Tuskegee, Ala.—Southern notables of two races paid honor to the scientific genius of a humble negro who was born in slavery and once was traded for a horse.

The man is George Washington Carver, the occasion an unveiling of a bronze bust bought by dollar contributions of his admirers.

Before he turned a year ago to experimenting with peanut oil as a massage for relief of infantile paralysis victims, he had discovered scores of everyday uses for sweet potatoes, peanuts and trees.

From these products he developed milk, ink, pigments, cosmetics, paper, and even imitation marble.

For Service In North

Six Mounties Believing Constables Who Have Completed Long Terms

Edmonton.—Six Royal Canadian Mounted Police constables have left here for isolated posts in the North West Territories where they will be stationed for three and four year terms.

They were: H. MacLeod, Regina, bound for Providence; A. B. Spencer, Toronto, bound for Fort Reliance; A. Munro, of Ottawa, bound for Fort Smith; C. Combe, of Calgary, bound for Resolution; D. N. Bliss, of Vancouver, bound for Cameron Bay; and T. H. Tregod, of Winnipeg, bound for service at Fort Smith.

They will relieve constables this month completing long terms of service in the north.

America's Cup Challenge

Aboard the Coast Cutter Argo, off Newport, R.I.—Harold S. Vanderbilt's Racer came off the victor in a first trial spin with Gerard B. Lambert's Yankee for the right to defend America's cup against a British challenger.

Tax Collections Higher

Ottawa.—A net increase in income tax collections of $16,881,247 for the two months ended May, 1937, compared with the same period of 1936, was reported by Revenue Minister J. L. Tully. The respective totals were $76,568,973 and $59,687,726.

Canadian Penal System

Would Place All Jails And Prisons Under Federal Administration

Winnipeg.—Revision of the Canadian penal system to place all jails and prisons under federal administration was recommended by the Manitoba government to the royal commission investigating penal institutions.

The commission, headed by Mr. Justice Joseph Archambault of the superior court of Quebec, received the recommendations at the first session here.

The Manitoba government brief, prepared by Attorney-General W. J. Major, suggested causes and prevention of crime be first objects of study. Revision of the criminal code to permit payment of fines by instalments was recommended to reduce numbers jailed through inability to pay fines.

PATTULLO TAKES OFFICE FAGED WITH LESS MAJORITY

Vancouver.—Premier T. D. Pattullo, handed the reins of British Columbia's administration for another five years but faced with a slightly pared legislative majority, has started to survey the job ahead of him.

It is expected the premier would give his attention first to cabinet remodeling.

The prime minister has spoken often of the desirability of a trade ministry in the provincial government and the addition of that portfolio is believed under consideration.

Members of the last cabinet, all re-elected, were expected to retain old portfolios. The premier himself, however, was believed ready to put on other shoulders the duties of attorney-general which he assumed with the elevation of Gordon Sloan to the supreme court. Gordon S. Wismer, new lawyer-member for Vancouver-Centre, was prominently mentioned for the post.

Responsible for the government's decreased majority were the re-organized Conservatives under Dr. Frank Patterson who elected eight candidates to become the official opposition in the next parliament. They had contested 43 of the 48 seats.

A majority of more than 14,000 showed the ballots swinging in favor of a healthy, humane change for British Columbia's 100,000-odd low wage earners as returning officers counted votes cast in a province-wide state medicine plebiscite.

The plebiscite, held with the provincial general election, showed 52,195 in favor and 38,610 against with seven overtaking ridings unheard from and only a few polls in most rural sections available.

Big urban industrial centres where returns were most complete showed heavy support for the plan of contributory health insurance drafted by Hon. George Weir, minister of health in the last legislature.

It was expected, if public sentiment is shown to be in favor of the plan, he would introduce to the new Liberal legislature a scheme similar to that which he piloted through the house last session. He was reported to suspect that scheme on the eve of its inauguration, in the face of severe outside opposition, principally from the medical fraternity.

Expand Air Mail Service

Washington.—Representative James M. Mead of Buffalo, N.Y., told the United States house of representatives an airmail route connecting the capitals of the United States and Canada was contemplated under terms of a bill to expand the airmail service by 3,000 route miles.

ANNOUNCES ELECTIONS

Premier Angus Macdonald, of Nova Scotia, who announces that the Provincial elections will take place on June 29th.

Simpler Tax In England

Will Be Based On The Profits Of Industry

London.—Prime Minister Chamberlain, stating "I can get a larger amount and in a better way," withdrew the bitterly-assailed national defence contribution—the tax on growth of profits—and announced in the House of Commons it would be replaced by a simpler tax on profits.

Chamberlain, who himself introduced the budget prior to his elevation to the prime minister's post, did not supply details of the projected simpler tax. He stated, however, they did not involve increases in either income taxes or indirect taxation but would be based on the profits of industry.

"My record does not include piggyback obstinacy," he declared, in conceding much alarm was felt over the growth of profits tax.

He explained the new proposals will require a new financial resolution before they could be embodied into the finance bill. Therefore the first intimation the House will have of the nature of the proposals will be when Sir John Simon, Chamberlain's successor as chancellor of the exchequer, issues the new resolution.

Peace On The Pacific

Non-Aggression Pact Is Considered By Imperial Conference

London.—The non-aggression pact for nations bordering on the Pacific ocean, proposed by Premier Joseph A. Lyons of Australia, received "optimistic consideration" from the imperial conference.

The conference opened what officials said was an explanatory discussion of the Lyons proposal, placed before the Empire gathering at its opening May 15.

The Australian premier considerably amplified his original proposal, asserting now is the time for arranging a guarantee of "peace in the Pacific." When Lyons offered his suggestion most observers believed he had in mind principally Japan, since Australia is the British dominion lying nearest that power.

Authorities close to the conference said there was little prospect of definite action by the conference on the pact, but Great Britain and the dominions will investigate its possibilities after the dominions' delegates return home.

In Permanent Service

Winnipeg.—For the first time since the Winnipeg division of the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve was organized in 1923, two senior non-commissioned officers, A. Macdonald and C. Holland, have been transferred to permanent service with the Royal Canadian Navy. Macdonald has been transferred to Toronto and Holland to Esquimalt, B.C.

Windsor Is Married

Civil And Religious Ceremony Unites Duke And Woman Of His Choice

Chateau De Candie, Monts, France.—Edward, Duke of Windsor, and Wallis Warfield, the woman he preferred to a crown, came to the wedding crossroads of romance. The scene was behind the old walls and the spired towers of this 16th century chateau in the romantic Touraine.

A "Poor man's parson," and his last minute determination, made it a Church of England wedding, gave Edward and his twice-divorced bride the blessing of the church.

There was no member of the royal family, other than the duke himself, among the bare half-hundred within the castle walls.

A French civil service and an Anglican altar started life anew after 40 for the man who was king and for the woman who could never be queen.

The clergyman, Rev. R. Anderson Jardine, of St. Paul's church, Dartington, Eng., came to Monts of his own choice and without the consent of his superiors to perform the religious ceremony. The Bishop of Fulham, in charge of continental Anglican churches, issued a statement to the effect he had not given permission for the ceremony and that Jardine was acting on his own initiative.

Recently by decree in The London Gazette it was announced the duke could not be designated "her royal highness" following the wedding, although that style was given the Duke of Windsor.

BRITISH PLAN TO PROTECT FLEETS IN SPANISH WATERS

London.—Foreign Secretary Eden informed Dominion delegates to the imperial conference concerning his efforts to ward an international fleet to protect foreign vessels patrolling the Spanish coast.

Eden was represented as being more hopeful Germany and Italy will return to the non-intervention committee from which they withdrew after two of their patrol ships suffered bombardment by Spanish government planes.

Convinced of the necessity of preventing any new critical incidents in the civil war, Foreign Secretary Eden was understood to have taken under advisement the plan which would grant Italy and Germany's demands for guaranteed protection of the fleets in Spanish waters.

The British admiralty was reported to be considering despatch of additional ships to the troubled area. The battle squadrons of both Italy and Germany already off Spain were being reinforced.

Under the proposal Eden was said to have before him for immediate action, the warships of Britain, France, Germany and Italy would unite as an international fleet in the event of any further molesting of vessels of the "hands-off-Spain" committee.

The foreign office was said to be convinced speedy action was necessary to bring Italy and Germany back within the non-intervention set-up.

Addition to the need for a quick resolution of the swiftly-developing situation was the reported Italian order to its fleet in Spanish waters to halt vessels bearing supplies of war from Russia to the Valencia government.

The territory left ununsurpassed by German and Italian withdrawal included the important ports of Valencia and Barcelona which were assigned to Italy and Germany by the committee when it parcelled out the coast of Spain to the international watchdogs. They were to curb the flow of arms and men to both government and insurgent factions in the civil war.

In cabinet room No. 10 Foreign Secretary Eden outlined to imperial conference delegates the efforts Great Britain is making to bridge the gap in the naval vacuum over Spain. So far the gap remains.

Italy and Germany, although strengthening their naval forces in the western Mediterranean, show no inclination to return to the patrol scheme until they receive guarantees there will be no recurrence of such incidents as that in which Spanish government planes bombed the German battleship Deutschland with the loss of 24 killed and 82 wounded.

Canadian delegates, it is stated, did not engage in any general discussion of the Spanish situation but turned to the Pacific non-aggression pact suggested by Prime Minister J. A. Lyons of Australia at the opening plenary meeting.

INSURGENT ARMY COMMANDER IS KILLED IN CRASH

Victoria, Spain.—General Emilio Mola, commander of all insurgent armies in northern Spain and director of the two-months-old siege of Bilbao, was killed in the crash of a fog-bound plane.

Two of his staff officers and two pilots died with him in the wreck near Briviesca, 25 miles northeast of Burgos, capital of General Francisco Franco's insurgent regime early in the war and still a Franco stronghold.

Mola's body was thrown 25 yards from the wrecked plane and was so badly mangled it could be identified only by the tan waterproof coat he wore.

The bespectacled Mola was Franco's right-hand man, accounted the ablest strategist among all the insurgent chieftains' lieutenants. He was in command of the drive which carried insurgent forces within sight of Bilbao, Basque capital on the Bay of Biscay.

Apparently there was only one witness of the tragedy, a young shepherd tending his flock on the mountain slope where the plane crashed.

General Gonzalo Queipo de Llano, broadcasting from Seville, said: "Mola is dead but his spirit will remain. His death can change nothing. On the other hand, the enthusiasm to complete the work into which he put all his energy will be the greater."

The same fog that led to Mola's death spread over northern Spain, hampering the Bilbao drive, which was held up by a fog bank.

Only General de Llano had a place comparable to Mola's in Franco's command. Mola was in charge in the north and even commanded the Madrid front when Franco was not there.

Loss of Mola was considered a tremendous blow to Franco's campaign at Bilbao.

General Mola was flying from Victoria to Burgos in a bi-motor plane. The pilot, Captain Chamorro, apparently lost his bearings and smashed the plane against a mountain slope while flying low trying to get out of a fog bank.

Within three hours of the tragedy, General Franco issued a decree splitting command of insurgent northern armies in two.

General Fidel Davila, hitherto head of the technical junta of the insurgent regime, was appointed to command forces operating against Bilbao and the Biscay front.

General Saliquet, commander of forces on the Madrid front, one of the technical junta of the insurgent forces on Aragon, Sorik and Madrid fronts. General Queipo de Llano retained command of southern armies.

Defence Equipment

Contracts Awarded For More Than Fourteen Million Dollars

Ottawa.—Contracts for more than $14,000,000 for military, naval and air equipment have been awarded within recent weeks, Hon. Norman Rogers, acting minister of national defence, announced.

Details were not made public, but Mr. Rogers said about $10,000,000 of the contracts will be spent in Canada.

This follows the expanded defence program announced in parliament at the past session. National defence department main estimates for the present fiscal year jumped to $33,730,873, an increase of $14,368,434 from the previous fiscal year.

In addition parliament this year voted $2,201,000 for the purchase of the destroyers Fraser and St. Laurent, bought in the fiscal year ended March 31 last.

The $33,730,873 was composed of $17,850,428 for militia services, $4,486,810 for the naval service and $11,391,635 for the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Air Force.—Mr. Rogers said: "The contracts have been let after public advertisement and tenders. In certain cases where competitive bids were not practicable owing to the special character of the equipment required, the financial provisions of the contracts have been approved by an inter-departmental committee set up for this purpose."

"In some instances where the requirements of the department could not be supplied by Canadian manufacturers orders have been placed in Great Britain through the office of the high commissioner for Canada."

The largest share of the contracts is for the air force, $8,857,362, of which it is estimated $4,248,066 will be spent in this country.

MEMBERS OF FAMOUS SOCCER TEAM REACH CANADA

On their arrival at Quebec on the Empress of Australia, Charlton Athletic's soccer team, which will tour Canada and the United States, was welcomed to the Dominion by Sam Davidson, secretary of the Dominion Football Association. In the group above are, left to right: Harold Turner, captain of the team; Dr. J. Montgomerie, medical officer; James Seed, manager of the club; Sam Davidson, and Dr. D. H. Clark, a director of the Charlton Club. The visiting footballers will start the Canadian part of their tour in Western Canada early in June.

CROSSFIELD, ALBERTA., THURSDAY, JUNE 10, 1937.

Friendly Visits

Arranging for a visit from other Boards of Trade, the gentlemen concerned do their district a well worthwhile turn. New ideas are brought, discussion on mutual problems ensues, exchange of views given, and each gets an insight into the other fellow's life.

Next week the Drumbeller Board of Trade members will visit Crossfield. They will be taken on a tour of inspection, and at night tendered a banquet, in the Masonic Hall. The visitors put on the programme, and will no doubt bring interesting messages to the district.

A large turnout is expected, and any gentlemen who are not yet members of the Board will be heartily welcome, on June 16, to come and attend the doings of the day and evening, interesting themselves, while learning what the other fellow does.

Tact

TACT is an imperative quality for the aspirant to popularity to cultivate. We all know how people with good hearts often hurt others by saying unkind things, although with the best intentions. It is not enough to say the right word and to do the right thing, but it must be said and done at the right moment. If it is ill-timed—even a little too early or a little too late—its effect is lost. It is not enough to mean to be kind. The fact that you did not intend to hurt another does not heal the wound that tactlessness and thoughtlessness inflicted. How many of us today, thinking we are doing right, barge in at the wrong moment, whereas a little consideration of the problem would make us choose the correct and proper time, when our act or advice would be of benefit. Thoughtless or tactless advice and acts are often just likened unto rubbing salt into an open wound, stinging and hurting beyond conception, yet, we blunder along, thinking we are helping, when, in reality, we are hindering and hurting.

Tolerance, in this world today, is needed, and so is tact, tact in handling our friends and neighbours, giving aid, help and advice at the right time, but yet, by handling the situation so skilfully and tactful, that the full benefit of our words or deeds are accomplished, the wound healed, instead of being thoughtlessly torn wider apart.

All of us can look back to some time in our lives, how we, through blundering, hindered, when we had intended to help, all because, in doing so, we were tactless.

When we do something, or say something that is to be of benefit, let us study it carefully, choosing the correct opportunity before we launch it.

The Innocents Suffer

WHEN cannons roar, and instruments of war belch out their fire of destruction, who suffers? Little Children! Your children! Correct.

What is gained by War? Victors lord it over the vanquished, if your country is the former, you pay, and if the latter, you doubly pay. Think! Ask yourselves the question, "Who benefits?" The answer will surprise you.

Reading an article where many little children of Spain were killed by bombs from the sky, inspired Garret to write the following lines:

CHILDREN

Prattling lips, little feet so bold,
Hearts so blithesome and gay,
Give no harsh looks or words that scold,
To spoil childish adventures of day.
Little pattering feet in field or street,
Sunshine that's wrapped in a face,
Remember, please do, that wherever you meet,
This child is one of God's grace.
When I think of some children, who play today,
Remote from here, so far, far away,
I hear a drone, see a glint in the sky,
Then smother, a roar, and children die,
Satan's machines—Manned by Heroes of Race;
Heroes! "God" save the words—Heroes Disgrace;
Out from the heavens, right from the blue,
Taking their toll. What! Just a child or two.
Tousled head, comely body, a wee noble face,
Child of a once, but glorious race,
Tattered and torn, limb rent from limb,
Blood-soaked in God's earth, but don't blame the "Him".

This can't be the will of the One who said,
Laying His hand on a little child's head,
"Suffer little children to come unto Me."
Blame Him! Blame Him! Not me—not thee.
Blame the beasts that today incarnate reign;
Their minions that fly o'er the fields of Spain.
Blame the maniacs—for mad, yes, mad they must be
Who order these things done, but blame NOT 'HE'.

Today's Thought

We are not writing in the sand. The tide does not wash it out. We are not painting our pictures on the canvas, and with a brush, so that we can erase the error of yesterday, or overlay it with another colour today. We are writing our lives with a chisel on the marble, and every time we strike a blow we leave a mark that is indelible.

Behind the Headlines

Ottawa

By Dean Wilson

When the official Canadian delegation departed for London to attend the Imperial Conference, this column offered several hints about the things that were likely to occupy the spotlight of attention at this momentous gathering of the representatives from the various sections of the British Empire, and with the passage of time, these hints have turned out to be actualities.

But there are other subjects which have been considered in London during these official and unofficial gatherings, and these important decisions have not been disclosed. At least this is the opinion which prevails along Parliament Hill these days, where certain subjects and policies are known to be a matter of deep thought even amongst the officials who carry out the policies of the Government in power and it is only through contact with these permanent officials that any inkling can be obtained of what is happening.

One thing appears certain, and that is that Canada is playing the role as interpreter between the British Empire and the United States, with the definite indication that some history-making deal is being formulated between Great Britain, United States and Canada, whereby the Dominion would make certain big concessions to the United States from an economic point of view, and a balance would be created by Canada being released from her obligations to the Empire in the gigantic and expensive defensive programme of the whole Commonwealth.

It is a carefully figured out policy on the part of Canada since everyone of the arrangements will likely lead to certain economic benefits for the Dominion and also satisfy sectional differences that exist in this country. It would pacify the many elements in Canada who are opposed to rearmament on a giant scale, and which would have been necessary if Canada was to carry out her proportional contribution to the defensive costs of the British Empire. It means that Canada will not stand in the way of clearing the international trade channels which the British foreign policy entails in order to preserve peace amongst the nations of the world. It will permit Great Britain to make a deal with the United States along economical lines, without offending or in any way competing seriously with any of her Dominions who do a large scale business with the American republic. Then again, it is the only way in which President Roosevelt may help world peace to become an actuality without in a harsh manner stepping on the toes of American sensitiveness about mingling in foreign affairs on the European continent.

Orfiss Kolumn

P.D. Sez:

What is the best definition of a parliamentary candidate? Here is Mr. Winston Churchill: "A man who is asked to stand, wants to sit, and is expected to lie."

since there is no doubt that the American masses are absolutely opposed to any entanglements that would recall the sad history of the past World War and the subsequent default of the nations to pay their war debts to the United States Government.

The new scheme has the name, the colouring and the general appearance of a big business deal with the nations of the world getting together to create the policy of freer trade, to weaken nationalism in certain spots of the globe, and to return to the gold standard, and otherwise to do things that would avoid a general conflagration and chaos.

In return for Canada's concessions and general helping hand to the Empire, it is understood amongst the experts and experienced observers in Ottawa that Great Britain would transport certain industries to the Dominion in such a way as to benefit mutually both the Motherland and the Canadian people. Out of this maze, the most consistent story is that Great Britain would establish in this country certain industries that can be developed here, and which would do the Dominion a lot of good from an economic point of view. This move would be an actuality because Canada can supply cheap manufacturing power for these big industries, and also supply the raw materials. It can be carried out with the additional object to relieve the pressure of overpopulation in the larger industrial centres of the Old Country, and yet the new immigration would not involve any danger of competing with the people of Canada in labour matters since these new arrivals will be self-supporting one hundred per cent. The final point is that there are certain geographical reasons for this idea, and these are based on the fact that air raids in war cannot be made as easily or effectively on Canada as on the British Isles. Consequently, such a policy will mean a sudden and rapid growth of the Dominion as one of the greatest centres of major industries in the world.

Although this story from the Capital may sound like a dream to the readers of this column, yet that is far from being the case and such an impression is due to the fact that everyone concerned in these history-making plans have been working on this gigantic project for a long time in the deepest secrecy, with these disclosures providing a sensational surprise right now.

There are certain movements that suggest that this plan or policy has been formulating for months, and the actions of the Dominion Government corroborate opinion of the expert observers. It was noted that when Premier King had picked his delegation for the Imperial Conference, these delegates included an unusually large number of immigration experts. In fact, the Hon. T. A. Cresser, who is the Minister of Immigration, occupied a very prominent role in all plans for the Imperial Conference, and although he took along with him certain very well-known experts from the Department of Immigration at Ottawa, yet it was a dark secret what these men had done, whom they had seen or what work they had accomplished at the conclusion of their interviews with British officials. It was also observed that Grahame Towers, Governor of the Bank of Canada, left for London at the same time as these officials, and although his mission was stated to be merely one "routine" only, it was learned that a peculiar coincidence brought other leading central bankers to London at the very same time, and all reports indicated that they were in deep secret meeting every day for about a week's time. But the greatest indication came from the marked silence that followed when a prominent British statesman, whose name is a household word in the Empire, told a newspaperman informally that he believes that "Canada will some day become the key-stone of the industrial arch of the British Empire." This statement was never denied by the various Dominion Government officials, and experts realize now what this Ottawa silence signified.

RADIO DIRECTS CANADA'S FASTEST PLANE

THE fastest airplane in Canada became the property of the Dominion Government this month as officials of the Civil Aviation Branch of the Department of Transportation accepted the swift silver Lockheed 12-A from Fairchild Limited. This ship is shown at St. Hubert Airport, Montreal, where it will undergo exhaustive tests before flying to its home base at Ottawa to become the first of the Trans-Canada passenger service.

Propelled by twin 420 horsepower constant speed motors, the adjustable pitch propellers drive this silver streak at a top speed of 245 miles an hour and a cruising speed of 212 miles an hour at 11,000 feet. Every modern navigation equipment have been built into this ultra-modern aerial arroy which will be recognizable by its letters "CF-CCT", and is similar to that which guided and kept Dick Merrill in touch with land during his latest triumphant dash across the Atlantic with historic news films.

I am, however, hoping that funds will be made available shortly when work will be commenced immediately."

Knowledge Of Weather May Soon Be One Of World's Most Important Sciences

A prediction that the knowledge of weather will soon be one of the world's most important sciences was sounded by John Patterson, director of the meteorological service of Canada at Toronto, who urged universities to provide courses in the science which at present is taught in Canada only at the University of Toronto.

Mr. Patterson, delivering the presidential address, traced the history of weather forecasting in Canada since the 1860's. Canada, he said, has undertaken the responsibility of providing a meteorological service for the western Atlantic, Newfoundland and eastern Canada for the trans-Atlantic service and is busily engaged in preparation for a service from coast to coast for the trans-Canada airway.

He recalled that an airway was established several years ago across the prairies and is to be revived. The meteorological service is now faced with the fact modern planes fly twice as fast as they did when the previous line was operated. Consequently the weather service has to be faster and more frequent.

In the case of both the trans-Atlantic and trans-Canada airways 24-hour services will have to be maintained and forecasting centres established at the principal centres in the country, necessitating a great increase in personnel.

The Meteorological Service of Canada, he said, "is building up in the shortest possible time a technical staff with the necessary sub-technical and clerical positions in order that we can fully meet these requirements, and it is to provide the best service that meteorological science can give it is essential that we should have highly-trained technical men for this purpose."

For that reason and because technique had developed "to the point where it offers great opportunities to physicists and mathematicians to investigate the fundamental problems in meteorological science" he urged universities to launch courses.

Mr. Patterson spoke also of last winter's daily flights at Fort Smith, N.W.T., for gathering meteorological data in conjunction with the United States weather bureau and praised the work of three Royal Canadian Air Force flyers, Sergeants Thomas, Sorenson and Thompson, who missed only three days in the air between Oct. 10 and March 2.

He said the work of the climatological section of the service had been increased greatly in recent years by growing demands from manufacturers of heating, ventilating, air conditioning and similar machinery for data on the climate in various districts of Canada.

Consider Grassland Problem

Delegates From Canada Will Attend Congress In Wales

Delegates from Canada and the United States will meet other eminent agronomists from all the principal countries of the world at the Fourth International Grassland Congress which will be held at Aberystwyth, Wales, in July, 1937. The congress will consider different aspects of the grassland problem, including ecology, pasture and range management, seeds mixtures, plant breeding, genetics and seed production, manures and fertilizers, nutritive value of pastures, fodder conservation, and grassland economics.

The Other Side

Some people make money on the stock market; some people actually get their hands on a profit from milking shares; and, by the same token, some people also make money at the racetracks; and a few win prizes in the Irish Sweepstakes. You always hear about both, but you don't hear so much about those who lose their shirts and have to walk home because they have been stripped even of carfare.

Takes Pride In Furniture

Ontario Man Has Full Set Made Of Cattle Horns

Ira Howe of Lindsay, Ontario, who used to polish cow horns as a hobby in his spare time while a night watchman, to-day displays the passing of the "Longhorns," the wild-eyed cattle that once roamed the western ranges and made famous the "Texas Trail" to market.

For economic reasons, cattlemen no longer let their cows grow the horns that gouged out dollars and cents from the value of the animals. They found that railway cars were not conducive to a cow arriving in good condition at market when the longhorns freely used their horns upon each other.

Seated in what he believes is the only house in Canada equipped with cow-horn furniture, Howe mourned: "When I built this furniture every cow had horns and they were not difficult to get. Nowadays they don't let cattle sprout horns."

Howe has spent years in shaping his house of furniture. Every horn in the collection may be removed separately and polished. To give the pieces their lustre he puts them through several solutions until beautiful colors appear. It was the beauty of the polished horns that gave Howe the idea to make furniture out of them.

The pride of the collection is a settee of 100 pieces. He said it was made for strength as well as beauty. In a demonstration on one occasion, he said, four husky men jumped up and down on the settee but it stood up under the strain.

Thirty horns are in a rocking chair, the first piece the watchman made. "I used to support the piano stool. The clothes iron is a forest of cow horns which, Howe said proudly, are stronger than oak and 'will last forever'."

Presents Its Problems

Shipper's Wife Sometimes Finds Housekeeping At Sea Difficult

Mrs. Darrell Cheney, of Saint John, N.B., wife of the skipper of the 60-ton motor vessel Twilash and Roselle, likes the sea and has been sailing with her husband for years. She knows seamanship and can load a compass quicker than her landlubber friends can telephone the grocer. But housekeeping aboard ship presents its own problems. For this reason Mrs. Cheney prefers vessels with tall masts and billowing canvas. "Not that they are supposedly more romantic but just that they don't roll so much," she said.

"The trouble is I just finish my housecleaning and then we hit rough weather. Everything goes topsy-turvy and I'm forced to repeat the job. You'd be surprised what a mess a storm can make of your kitchen and cabin."

"You not only have to deal with the usual pots, pans and kettles, but with an arrangement of strings and wires and bars to keep your dinner on the stove and prevent it sliding to the floor."

She had a merry Christmas last year listening to the turkey trying to bang its way out of the oven while she fought for her balance and "watched three or four pots playing checkers on the stove, all moving around and trying to jump one another."

Feeding men at sea is entirely different from such a job elsewhere, Mrs. Cheney declared. "There's something about the sea air that keeps me setting the table all the time."

Even a home on the water has its "back door callers." A vessel tied up at a berth seems especially attractive to pandemonium. "Must be that there is no lawn to mow or wood to chop," she surmised.

The Gentle Tornado

Sometimes even a tornado can be gentle. During a 100-mph wind storm, an automobile belonging to a farmer in Grenville, South Dakota, was whisked through the air and set down on a farm a quarter-mile away, where a garage man, found it. The radiator cap was missing and there was a scratch on the hood. That was all.

In some respects the idea of finger-printing children seems to be a good one. At least it will settle the question as to who used the guest towel in the bathroom.

Have Common Ancestors

People Of United States Feel Appeal Of British Throne

It was no small or ignoble feeling which turned the eyes of Americans to the streets of London and the abbey church of Westminster on May 12. Something deep in the heart responds to this ancient ritual, with its symbols of a common heritage. It is not our monarch, and as betas a democracy, the symbols of our government are simplified to a flag. Yet so much of our language and law and custom had their beginnings upon "this England," through the courage and loyalty of common ancestors, that our emotion is simple, direct, inevitable.

As the country has been learning to its better wisdom in recent months, those ancestors labored zealously to preserve in their new charter the sum and substance of that inheritance. Hardly an item entered the Bill of Rights that was not the gain of hard fighting by that "happy breed of men" through generations and centuries.

It is as citizens of a resolute and wholly independent nation that Americans look eastward across the Atlantic. But they see more than the crowning of a monarch by a great and friendly empire. They see ships sailing westward carrying men and a civilization from that island, their ancestors. They can never forget the precariousness of that heritage. They can never view lightly any symbol which speaks from those common centuries. Whether it recites "sad stories of the death of kings" or seats a young monarch upon his throne, amid the applause of an empire, the appeal is the same and beyond forgetting.—New York Herald Tribune.

Stand On High Peak

Winding Track Only Approach To Church In South Devon

Miss Betty Duff Graham, of Ford Park Rd., Plymouth, and her fiancé, Mr. Charles Cowley Alleyne, a London man, are to be married shortly in the little village church of Brentor, South Devon, England, which stands on the 1,100-foot peak, Brent Tor.

The church is so inaccessible that the only approach to it is a winding track which cannot be traversed by motor car.

Local legend says the church was built by a sea captain who vowed, when nearly drowned in a channel gale, that if he ever got through safely he would build the church on the highest point he saw when he landed.

Cause Heavy Loss

Insects And Fungi Destroy Much Timber In Canada

It is computed that, while fire destroys 280,000,000 cubic feet of merchantable timber and the young growth on 550,000 acres in Canadian forests every year, insects, fungi, and windfall account for the loss of at least 700,000,000 cubic feet. The destruction caused by insects and fungi would undoubtedly be substantially greater, were it not for the preventive and control measures taken by the Dominion and Provincial Entomologists and Botanists.

The young husband rushed up to the nurse as she came down from his wife's room.

"Tell me," he asked excitedly, "is it a boy?"

Nurse: "Well, the one in the middle is."

Canadian Honey

Canada Is The Largest Shipper Of Honey To The British Market

Canada was the largest individual shipper of honey among the various 45 countries which contributed 8,828,296 pounds to the British market in 1936. The Canadian shipments of 2,285,238 pounds in 1936, which exceeded the 1935 figure by 560,000 pounds, an increase of about 33 per cent, supplanted Jamaica as the leading exporter of honey to the British Isles. Since 1925, when 354,144 pounds of honey were shipped, the exports to the United Kingdom have mounted steadily from 4.1 per cent of the total British honey imports to 27.1 per cent in 1936.

As Canadian honey is almost exclusively exported in bulk, it does not command an equal position to the best English honey. Nevertheless, Canadian honey is well liked and is especially desired for blending purposes. Moreover, Canadian honey brings a better average price than most other bulk honeys imported and sold on the London market (except New Zealand), but there is a figure beyond which it would be difficult for importers to pay for Canadian bulk honey unless retail prices were to be increased. The great varieties of honeys available on the British market tend to make blenders and bottlers somewhat independent at times of Canadian supplies, but most of them prefer to use Canadian honey because it can always be depended upon to be well graded. However, when prices reach too high a figure, substitution quickly comes into use.

Nuisance To Be Stopped

People Teasing Animals In New York Zoo Will Be Arrested

Don't throw peanuts to the elephant unless you want to go to jail. That's the new edict for New York's Zoological Park, as issued by Director W. Reid Blair.

Conditions have become so bad at the zoo as the result of animals eating everything from bottle tops to vanity cases that zoo officials have announced that all animal-teasers will now be given summonses.

According to Dr. Blair, the situation has reached a point where visitors in the monkey house are given over to actually spitting in the faces of the apes just to get them to spit back.

The best cure for the situation, according to the director, is to put some of "these smart individuals in a cage and let the animals annoy them."

Another favorite trick of the zoo visitors seems to be the throwing of lighted cigars and cigarettes. On one occasion, a man tossed a lighted cigar in the open mouth of Pete, the hippopotamus.

There are many unforeseen dangers in the teasing of the animals, according to Dr. Blair. He related the story of how one visitor tossed a pop bottle into a chimpanzee's face. The bottle broke, and the infuriated animal scooped up the fragments and began throwing them at the crowd.

"A wild animal in captivity naturally reasons that anything offered him by a supposedly intelligent human being is good to eat," Director Blair said. "But, unfortunately, many a captive animal has offered up his life on the altar of misplaced confidence."

A check-up on the casualties and injuries shows a sea lion was killed by swallowing four rubber balls, and another died from impaction of the intestines — 26 handkerchiefs were found in the stomach.

A bear was killed by feeding it peaches with the stone in them, and a fawn suffered a broken leg when visitors threw a stick. The swallowing of a rubber band by a California condor resulted in death, and a valuable shoe-bill stork was injured when a visitor threw a stone in order to get some "action" out of the bird.

The casualties are listed even for the visitors—several people have received nipped fingers attempting to feed the animals.

"If you cannot refrain from injuring an animal exhibit," Dr. Blair points out, "a gun is more merciful than peaches, candy, popcorn, peanuts and tobacco, and far more respectable."

CHAPTER VI.—Continued

After I had been knocking around Martin Kelly's a few days, he sent me down one afternoon on an errand to James O'Leary's farm on the next line. Mrs. O'Leary was as plump as a sack of grain; and the jolly, good-natured woman gave me a piece of bread with a thick spread of sugar. Her fat face puckered and cracked in a smile like a potato bust in roasting.

It was the very day after I was there that a tree fell on Mrs. O'Leary and killed the poor man entirely. With his sons he had been back chopping in the bush. In falling a maple tree lodged on the limb of a large elm. The boys left it suspended thus, and went on to chop a tree standing near at hand. The third of their next fall was so great that it shook the maple free; and it fell, crushing their father to death.

Of course, there was a wake at the O'Leary's. The wind of the news was enough for me; and, with the fall of night, I slipped over to the house of the dead to see the doings.

"Gand's the hawn, Pat (how are ye, Paddy)?" the widow asked me kindly as I went into the house.

"Slanger a managouth (all right thank'ee)," I replied, doffing my caubeen.

Then down on my knees I went before the body. My heart was fluttering like a little bird in your hand with fear Jimmie would jump out at me; but I let on to be saying my prayers.

The rough pine coffin lay lidless on a bed in the corner of the ground floor of the cabin. It was a sad and mournful meeting. With faces long drawn out, and solemn looking as owls, the men stood lining the walls, uttering pious sighs and, sometimes, scratching their poles. The women mourners sat on benches, and every few moments one of them would run her fingers through her hair and shriek out, "Oh o o h oh o o h. Poor Jimmie!"

Poor Jimmie! The body rocked to and fro as the men gradually died down. At the end of it she would fold her shawl again across her breast. Betimes of the wallings, the men talked of crops and kine; and glancing now and again toward the body, in low guttural tones, made complimentary comments on the life, ancestry and character of the deceased. On entering the room of the dead, the mourner first knelt before the bier to say a prayer for Jimmie's soul; and then a drop of drink was taken. There was tobacco, snuff and whiskey in plenty. Pipes passed from mouth to mouth, and in the flickering light of the candles, a haze hung in the room like the mist over a plowed field in the plover season.

A queer little old woman came in, all bent double; and after she knelt before the body, she swallowed a tidy drop of poteen, and was given the honor of a chair. Someone thrust a freshly-filled pipe into the ashes and passed it to her.

"God and Mary bless his soul and the souls of all the dead," she sighed; and seated in comfort at her ease, she withdrew like a turtle within the privacy of her shawl.

The woman was short and dusk like a cold winter's day; and she needed a pitcher near to make her good-looking. Mary Doyle went about the countryside taking care of sick folk and minding babies. She got a trifle for attending funerals because she was a special hand at keening. Devil a pinch of sorrow had she in her heart for the dead man in his going. The face of her was enough to sour a crock of cream. The keen, which is a mournful ballad, has four feet to the line as sung in the Irish tongue; and it is only a diversion that makes an end to the number of its verses. Its general purpose is to excite pity, compassion, or hate; and to my mind it is especially effective when used to curse and blast the cruel and treacherous English. In spirit, both the keen and the wake itself, are utterly and entirely pagan. And why Mour Church let such rites get mixed up with the burial of her Christian dead is beyond me. The Irish keen speaks only in terms of unqualified grief; it has a deep and hopeless melancholy as its basis; and finds no place for the joy of the blessed resurrection. In a low tone Mary Doyle began the funeral song:

Cold and silent in his bed!
Och home!

Damp in the dew of night,
The sun brings warmth

And dries the dew,
But his heart will stay cold,

Och home, Machree!

Cold and silent in his repose!
He is gone forever.

He will return no more!
Cold and silent in his grave!

Och home, Machree!

The keener clapped her hands and rocked her body back and forth as the dirge stretched itself out in weird and melancholy repetition. One after another the other women joined in as a chorus; and their long drawn-out, sobbing wails and piercing shrieks rent the night air. Between whistles, a pipe passed along the benches from woman to woman. The creatures were enjoying themselves immensely.

The keening died down as a fresh group of neighbors arrived and attended to their religious duties. Among them was an old boss, Martin Kelly, who had enjoyed a lift getting over with his bad foot. The corpse and Martin were boys from the same parish in the old sod. Yet for years back they had never met but the din of their noise destroyed the place; and, in parting, their sticks usually shook at one another. Only recently there had been a bitter riot between them touching the price of the O'Leary heifer.

Martin rose from his knees with tears of sorrow in his eyes. There was something truly affecting as the man stood, nodding his head solemnly, looking long into the face of his dead neighbor.

"Ah me!" said Martin Kelly, "Jimmie O'Leary was a fine man. Ah! Jimmie makes a pretty corpse!"

Then placing his rough hand on the pallid forehead, Martin sobbed out:

"Ah! cold as death is Jimmie's head!"

There are old cart-wheel tracks in every man's brain, and his thoughts slide into familiar ruts without his let or hindrance. As Martin turned sedately from the bier to take his place in the crowd, the old fire sparkled in his eyes, and, with a toss of his head, he exclaimed:

"But colder was the living heart of him!"

Pete O'Leary, the dead man's eldest son, leapt in the air like a goat. In the wink of an eye, Martin and he were hoisting their chins into the air and looking at each other. Pete was a chunky young fellow, made a smart pass at Martin's jaw, but failed to make connections. Martin was an old man and a cripple; but he was slim and long bodied. Quick as a flash, he brought his skull down crack, with a vicious butt hitting Pete's face on the line where the eyebrows grow. It was a knockout pass he gave him; and down Pete went to kiss the floor boards.

Trailing his bad foot and coat along the floor, Martin shouted:

"May the devil sweep all the O'Learys together!"

Pete's wife threw her shawl off and rushed screaming toward the prick-of-youth into the pride of the O'Learys.

"Holy Mary! Pity my heart to be married to a good-for-nothing-at-all!" the woman exclaimed as she set upon the wounded man and belabored him onto his feet again.

The O'Learys did then be letting manners into Martin Kelly with their sticks; and shell-lashes and wallpapers came smartly into action. The women bawled themselves hoarse directing the fray, and men were running about with cracked pates, themselves roaring out that they were killed entirely. A fat, little fellow on our side was giving blood like a stuck pig; but the O'Learys' faction also had plenty of blood to drink. It was a roaring ruction; and everyone felt afterwards it had been highly complimentary to the corpse we were waking.

The arrival of Jimmie's cousins bearing an elegant pig hot-roasted from a spit made a sudden diversion that broke up the brawl. Four men were bearing the savory beast on a litter; and the way of the procession was lit by lanterns made by sticking candles through broken bottoms into the necks of bottles. My heart beat like a watch with the delight of the smell of the roasted pig. I sat down on my heels, and kept a cat's eye on the victuals. Meat and drink were ordained by custom

Story Of A Robin

Performs Abutions In A Bird Bath

That Was Empty

A unique problem has arisen in Ottawa. A robin hopped into a bird bath and went through all the wing-flapping motions usually associated with a red-breasted abutions. But the bath was empty; had been so all this season. It had been full last year, and robins had been accustomed to bathe in it. Was this one of them, yielding to old habit although there was now no water to refresh it? Or was it taking a dust bath, such as sparrows take sometimes in the middle of a road—a sort of dry-cleaning process? Or was the wise little bird just conveying a hint to the bird-bath owner that a little moisture would be appreciated?

Everyone who owns a dog knows that animals are creatures of habit. Those who own birds say the same thing is also true of these. Though they are not possessed of memory, they do things sometimes that appear to be acts of memory; in reality, acts of habit. That is, the body remembers, although the mind—if a bird has a mind—may not. A robin, therefore, might well associate a certain bath with a certain enjoyable experience and proceed to go through the motions which produced this experience last year. It is well known that birds will return to the same place to nest. Why shouldn't they return to the same bath to bathe?

As to the motions of the Ottawa robin being intended as a hint to the bath-owner, we think that this is a rather far-fetched theory. Dogs will come and nudge their owners if they wish to go for a walk. Canaries will "cheep" sometimes to attract attention to their needs. But the idea of a robin flapping its wings to shame the bath owner into turning on the water supply is just a juvenile sort of a guess. A robin intelligent enough to do that would hire a flock of fire-flies to light around the lawn and act as miniature flash-lights to bring the dew-worms to the surface. It is a good story but it does not quite go down.—Toronto Star.

New Director Of Bank Of England Was Newspaper Man

One of the new directors of the Bank of England, John Martin, was once a newspaper reporter. He left his native Stirling as a young man to emigrate to South Africa, got a job on a newspaper there, and rose to become head of the biggest newspaper organization in the country. Then he turned his attention to gold, and is now the most commanding figure on the Rand, controlling in one group alone mines with an output of $70,000,000 a year.

In the San Juan Islands, whole villages often pack up and go on excursion visits to other islands as far as 60 miles away. The trips often last six months.

Horse Was Disgusted

Evidently Thought Radiator Ornament On Car Was An Apple

Dobbin took a nip at the machine age in Lima, Ohio, but he was as much surprised as anyone.

Al Becker, an insurance man, left his automobile in a parking lot while the time a milk wagon was making deliveries. Casting a sleepy eye on a bright red "Dirigible" radio ornament, the horse reached over and nipped it off, clean as you please.

"He must have thought it was an apple," Becker, "because he looked disgusted when he spit it out."

An English law society unearthed some obsolete laws which declared it illegal to make mince pie, have a Christmas dinner of more than three courses, smoke a cigarette in the streets, or play billiards on Sunday.

Report Shows Two Pair Yearly Is Average Canadian Purchase

Two pair a year is the average habit of Canadian consumption of leather footwear. This includes boots and shoes, slippers, moccasins and all similar leather wear, reports a bulletin from the Agricultural and Industrial Progress in Canada. The figure for 1935 was slightly above two pairs and that for 1934 slightly below it. The gross value of production in the leather footwear industry of the Dominion has been on the upgrade since 1932 and the quantity output has been increasing since 1930. Quantity output for 1935 set up a new record for the industry and preliminary figures for 1936 indicate a further advance.

May Tour The Empire

Earl Baldwin Would Like To Take Trip Very Soon

The London Sunday Referee, in a front page story, said: "Earl Baldwin, the most popular man in Great Britain, is to become an unofficial ambassador to the empire."

"Next year he will make a long tour of the dominions, representing the king."

"The idea was suggested by the empire premiers now in London."

"Baldwin is already working with the king about the project and would like to undertake the tour as soon as he has a rest from the ardors of recent years."

Little Helps For This Week

Your heavenly Father knoweth that you have need of all these things. Matthew 6:32.

All as God wills who wisely bestow.
To give or to withhold;
And knoweth more of all my needs.
Than all my prayers have told.

Lord, I know not what I ought to ask of Thee. Thou only knowest what we need. Give to thy child that for which he knows not how to ask. I open my heart to Thee and dare not ask either for crosses or consolations. Behold my needs which I know not myself, see and do according to Thy tender mercy. Depress me or raise me up, for I adore all Thy purposes without knowing them. I am silent, and would have no other desire than to accomplish Thy will. Teach me to pray, and pray thyself in me.

Carpet Made In Scotland

Scotland has sent a wonderful carpet to India. Made at Glasgow for the Maharajah of Baroda, it has travelled 7,500 miles in a huge tin tube, intended to cover the floor of the large hall in the Maharajah's palace, the carpet is over a hundred square yards, and is one of the biggest ever made in Scotland.

Deep sea fishes sometimes "fall up" into lighter pressure areas, and are unable to get back down again due to the expansion of air bladders.

And Far
Handier
Than Older
Ways!!!

Here is the most useful waxed tissue package you've ever seen.

This new pack contains 45 sheets of silver white waxed tissue. Though the top of the pack is a metal eyelet for hanging on the wall. Inside, the tissue is held in a tubular grip so that you can withdraw one sheet at a time by simply reaching out with one hand.

"Presto-Pack" thus becomes the handiest of all kitchen aids. You will wonder how you ever managed without it.

The World of Wheat.

By H. G. L. Strange
Director "Crop Testing Plan."

The quality of Canadian wheat is in danger!

Such was the fear expressed in 1895 by some who observed how rapidly the production of wheat was expanding throughout the Prairie Provinces, and how many new varieties—some quite inferior—were being brought in and seeded by farmers.

What could be done to assure that the sterling wheat, Red Fife, the veritable foundation of wheat quality, could be kept true-to-variety?

Dr. James W. Robertson, then Dominion Commissioner of Agriculture, set his mind to work. He studied the seed and crop improvement systems of other countries and finally conceived an idea that he thought might be suitable for Canada.

So in 1899 he put aside one hundred dollars of his own private funds in order to encourage boys and girls on their fathers' farms to pick the best heads of the standing crops of wheat and oats; the heads to be sent to Ottawa. Prizes were awarded for the best collection of true-to-variety heads.

Out of this plan soon came an organization that has steadfastly and continuously, for over thirty years, assisted in maintaining the high quality of Canadian wheat and other grains in world's markets—The Canadian Seed Growers' Association.

Outstanding for Carstairs were Wilma K. and Gladys Wise, and for the locals, Mary Murdoch, Connie Waterhouse and Mabel Sharp. Carstairs were better banded and gave the pitcher better support than that accorded the local ball twirler, but this will come as the season advances. Coolness and quicker thinking is all that is needed.

SENIOR BASEBALL
Crossfield Seniors and Dog Pound clashed at the local park on Saturday evening. Unfortunately, a game was also scheduled for the Midget Diamond, and this accounted for the small crowd.

It was a fair game of ball, neither side was at full strength, and Dog Pound ran out victors by 11 to 6.

Batteries: D. P. J. Thome and B. Gano. Crossfield: G. McDonald and G. Johnson.

MIDGETS

Tangling once again with the East Crossfield boys, the local Midgets gave a good account of themselves last Saturday evening, winning by a score of 11 to 2. The East boys were not at full strength, and the locals were never in difficulties.

SENIORITAS
Donald and his bonny lasses travelled to Garfield, Saturday, to participate in the local Sports Day, and the girls lost by one run in the only game they played.

Handicapped by a large loss of runs in the third inning, Don had to call Mary Murdoch to the mound, although his star pitcher was under the weather. Mary not only held down the score, but her team mates commenced hitting, making up the deficit, but losing out in the last inning by one run. However, while not getting into the prize money, gave a good account of themselves.

Final results: Cloverdale 21, and Senoritas 20.
